REGAIN YOUR YOUTHFUL ENERGY

We are charged energy beings, constantly interacting with the environment. Electric charge is a fundamental property of the body. At the core of your body's power to heal itself are sub-cellular organelles called mitochondria. The number of mitochondria in a cell varies widely by organism, tissue, and cell type and are concentrated in organs with high energy demands such as the brain, heart, liver, skin, and muscles. A constant supply of oxygen is needed for these high energy demands. In addition, light plays a crucial role in this natural process. Your body operates like a battery — certain wavelengths of sunlight can help power it.

Poor health, disease, and the effects of aging begin taking their effects on the human body as the cellular energy levels decrease. As the energy levels in the body go down, so does the body's ability to function, repair, and regenerate tissue and the body can become compromised in health.

The solution is to quite simply improve the body's cellular energy levels. Since both oxygen and light are part of this process, the addition of both can give a surplus of cellular energy to the body and now the body is 'powered up' to speed up its cellular processes, particularly in tissue repair and regeneration. By using advancements in technology (namely, hyperbaric and power bed technology), we can now dramatically supplement the body with both oxygen and light.
